Regional Planner

The Northeastern Vermont Development Association (NVDA) seeks a highly skilled and self-motivated individual for a full-time Regional Planner position to work with a team of dedicated professionals, municipal officials, and regional partners. The Planner will work under the direct supervision of the Director and as part of a team in support of regional plan development and strategic implementation, municipal plan and bylaw development, and the leadership and administration of special projects in support thereof. This is grassroots planning at its core, requiring the ability and enthusiasm to work directly with the public, local planning commissions, and municipal staff. Knowledge of planning areas is necessarily broad, and includes land use planning, community & economic development, natural resource planning, as well as transportation, hazard mitigation, and energy planning in a scenic and rural environment.

Immediate job tasks will include supporting NVDA staff to complete a major regional plan update, providing planning and regulatory assistance to local municipalities, and assisting communities with local projects. A successful candidate must be able to independently manage multiple projects at any given time with NVDA staff support.

Candidates should be familiar with regional and municipal planning tools (regulatory and non-regulatory), and should have excellent writing, public speaking, meeting facilitation, inclusive public engagement, project development and management skills, and grant writing experience. Familiarity with planning in small rural communities is a plus.

The ideal candidate for the position will have a degree in planning or a related field (e.g. landscape architecture, geography, public administration, etc.) and 1 - 3 years' experience in rural municipal and/or regional planning, or equivalent experience. A master's degree in planning or a closely related field may be substituted for one year of required experience. Candidates should be able to demonstrate experience working with complex and cross-cutting issues.
